FAREWELL SERVICES.

Methodists will bid Farewell to the Building Which has Served Them For Nearly Half a Century. Praise Service Sunday Night.

An entertaining church service is promised the church going people of Madison next Sunday night. At that time the Methodist congregation will assemble for the last time in the building which for nearly half a century has served them as a house of worship. The old house which is beautifully located in an oak grove in the northwestern part of the city has been sold and will be transformed into a residence and the congregation will hereafter worship in the handsome modern brick structure which is almost completed at the corner of Rutledge and Horry streets.

The service of that evening will be devoted to songs of praise by the choir and congregation, recitations, and a history of the church in Madison by the pastor. Members and attendants of other churches are cordially invited to be present and join in the service.

The complete program is as follows:

FOR A STREET FAIR AND CARNIVAL THIS WINTER.

Sentiment Strong for Having one in Madison During the Coming Winter.

THE BUSINESS MEN INTERVIEWED.

To Work Everybody. We Must Have it for The Good of Our Town.

The New Enterprise believes in pushing along every idea which tends toward the progress and benefit of the town in which we live. There has been some talk of the benefits to be derived from a street fair and carnival and to test the strength of the sentiment of our business men on the subject we prepared a paper on which was written the following questions and presented it to a number of the business men of the town with the request that they would write their answers thereto and hand them into this office for publication. The questions submitted by us were:

"What do you think of the idea of having a street fair and carnival in Madison during the coming winter? If such can be gotten up will you aid in making it a success?"

That the sentiment of the town is strongly in favor of the movement is evidenced by the following answers which have been received. The only thing in the way of bringing the matter to a successful issue is a lack of co-operation upon the part of the citizens. We suggest that the business men now get together and organize, appoint suitable committees and put them to work on the scheme. There is no time for delay. If we would have the carnival this winter we must take hold and work. Let us have a mass meeting of the citizens at once. Here are the answers:

P. S. Coggins.—A good idea. Yes.
D. P. Beasley.—The proper thing. Yes.
L. A. Fraleigh.—Yes; think it will be a move in the right direction toward booming our town.

W. H. Dial, Jr.—I regard the matter favorably.

B. F. Moseley.—A good idea. Will do what I can to help it along.

W. S. Overstreet.—I am favorable to it and will aid.

J. B. Gaston.—Yes; I think it would be a good idea.

M. N. Drew.—A fine idea. Will endeavor to do all in my power to make it a success.

M. B. Thornton.—It has been demonstrated in several instances that a carnival and street fair is a great thing in enlivening the interest in a town. It has met with overwhelming success in other towns, why not in this? Everybody put their best efforts forward and let's have the carnival this winter.

A. E. Fraleigh.—I think it is just what we need and will aid in any way possible.

H. M. Taylor.—I think now is the time for us to wake up, as the sister towns are taking the lead. I for one will do my part to boom up this town.

D. G. Smith.—I think it a good plan and will be glad to assist in making it a success.

Jno. C. Dial.—There is nothing like showing the people at large that we are alive and up to date. We should have a three days' carnival by all means, and will do what I can for same.

L. H. Patterson.—I think it a good thing but don't think we can get it up now.

W. M. Taylor.—I know it is a good thing and something that will do Madison a great deal of good. I will do all in my power to make it a grand success.

Hardee & Hinely.—We are very strong advocates of a fair and will cheerfully contribute of our means and time to make it a success if gotten up.

R. F. Vann.—Put me down as strongly in favor of it. I will do what I can to "push it along."

T. J. Beggs & Co.—We are in favor of any enterprise that will add to the business interests of the town and will give it our support.

C. B. Ashley.—I am heartily in favor of having a street fair and carnival in Madison every year and think much good to the merchants and business people of the town could be accomplished by a united effort in this direction. I believe, however, it is too late in the year to successfully carry out such a plan, as our business people are now in the midst of their busy season and our farmers, who would very materially assist in such a scheme, are very busy at this season in gathering their crops. I think August or September the best months for a fair, but will gladly aid to make a success of it whenever it can be gotten up.

Randall Pope.—I am heartily in favor of it. It has proven a good thing for other towns, and now that our town is rapidly growing, no better time could be selected than this Fall or Winter. I will be glad to aid in making it a success.

Chas. E. Davis.—I think it would be a splendid idea and will do all I can to make it a success.

F. S. Hodges.—The idea is a capital one, and I shall lend it my whole support.

W. R. Thurston.—I say go it! Let's have it! I'll do what I can to help it. Let's have a crowd in Madison and use our excellent band for our own good.

ST. JOHNS SEMINARY

Opens Its Doors To The Youth Of The County. Regular School Term Begins On Next Monday.

Get your books together, boys and girls, for on next Monday school days will have returned again and you will be granted that blessed privilege of taking up the work which will fit you for the battles of the life to come.

The regular school term of St. Johns Seminary will commence on Monday, and already the boys and girls of the town and county are preparing for the occasion. The outlook for a large attendance upon Madison's school during the term is flattering indeed. The handsome building has been thoroughly cleaned, the desks have been airily polished and everything is in readiness for the opening.

The faculty of the school is composed of Prof. W. J. Maloy, Principal. Prof. N. N. Wellons, first assistant and Miss Whittie Dickinson, second assistant, and under the skillful guidance and painstaking care of these excellent teachers our boys and girls should make great progress in their books.

GREENVILLE'S HOSPITALITY.

South Georgia Railway Company Offer a Resolution of Thanks.

QUITMAN, GA., Sept. 21st, 1901.

At a special meeting held this day in Quitman by the officers and directors of the South Georgia Railway Company, J. G. McCall was invited to take the chair.

The purpose of the meeting was stated: That the barbecue given at Greenville, Fla., on the 19th inst. by Col. E. J. Hays and his friends in honor of the arrival of the first train of cars over this company's railroad from Quitman, Ga., to Greenville, Fla., was such a success in the abundant supply of provisions prepared, in splendid style, that it is due those liberal hearted gentlemen of Greenville that some appropriate notice should be taken of the occasion.

The following resolutions were offered and unanimously adopted:

1st. That the thanks of the management of the South Georgia Railway Company are due and are hereby cheerfully tendered to Col. Hays and his friends for the sumptuous barbecue given on the day of the arrival of their first train at Greenville.

2nd. That we kindly appreciate the generous welcome shown us and the kindly spirit of the large crowd which had gathered from the neighboring counties of Madison, Taylor and Jefferson, Florida, and the county of Brooks, Georgia, in honor of the occasion.

3rd. That this company shall do all in its power to prove of material benefit to the good people of Greenville and to aid in the development of the rich resources of these counties.

4th. That we earnestly request the press of these counties to publish these proceedings in their valuable papers.

J. G. McCALL, Chairman.

C. T. THILMAN, Secretary.
